Agreeable to the Rules, the Committee submits this the seventh annual report.

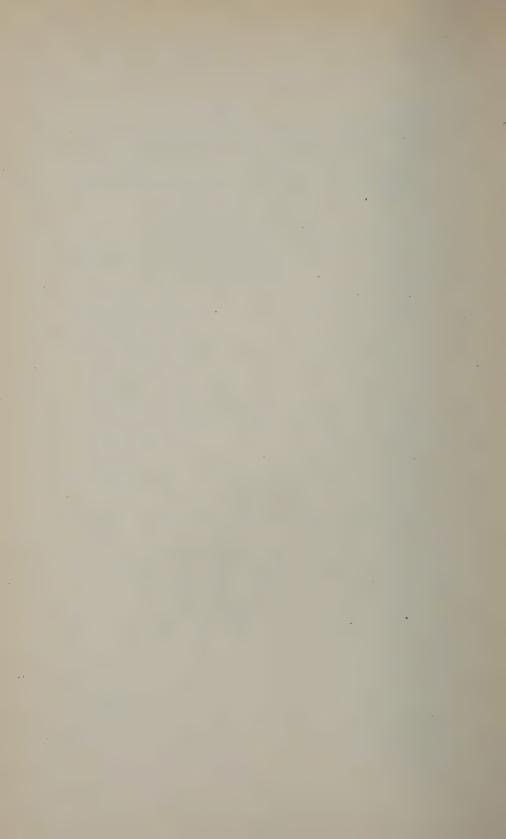

All the Cemeteries have been in the care of P. J. Call the same as last year.

The Cemetery on the plain has been newly staked, thereby preserving the symmetry of the lots and walks. It is hoped that the committees will be able to do something to improve the appearance of the cemeteries this year by resetting and righting some, at least, of the headstones and monuments that are so out of line and leaning, which has the look of neglect.

The income of the funds is still too small for the needs of the cemeteries, though increasing a little each year. The committee would again remind any who who may be disposed to add to the fund, that it would be greatfully received and faithfully used for the care and beautifying the cemetries in the town of Windham.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH L. COTTELL, W. D. COCHRAN, HORACE BERRY

SCHOOL REPORT.

Another school year has come to a close, and in compliance with the provisions of the "Statutes," the undersigned present to the town, this, their fifth annual report under the new law. On the 17th day of March last, the school board met and organized by chosing W. C. Harris chairman, B. E. Blanchard, Secretary, and J. W. M. Worledge, Treasurer.

The "Free text book" law that came into force Jan. 1st, 1890, imposed new and responsible duties upon the school board. It not only required us to purchase, at the expense of the town, text books and other supplies needed in the school-room, but gave us full authority to make a change in all the text books, if deemed expedient. had a large variety of samples of books for examination, and after devoting as much time and judgment as we had at command, it was decided to continue the use of Colburn's Revised Mental Arithmetic, Harper's large and small Geographies, and the new Franklin 4th and 5th Readers; and to replace the Fish-Robinson Arithmetics by Greenleaf's Complete Arithmetic and First Lessons in Numbers; Wells' Grammar by Patterson's Elements of Grammar and Composition; Campbell's History by Barnes' History of the United States; Franklin Advanced Readers, 1st, 2nd and 3rd, by the new Franklin series; Swinton's Word Book by the modern Spelling Book. It is gratifying to learn that many cities and towns in this and adjoining states are using substantially the same books as are in use here. In Vermont, for instance, twelve entire counties (all but two in the state) are using Greenleaf's series of Arithmetics, and they are said to be in use in about two-thirds of the towns in New Hampshire. It will be seen by the treasurer's report that $213,29 has been expended for school books and other supplies, but of this amount we have on hand, books which have not yet been used to the value of $34,50. We believe most of the new books have been well cared for, and have added to the interest and progress of our schools.

The teachers employed the past year, it is believed, have been as competent and as successful as in any of the four previous years. Sickness has prevailed in some districts to such an extent as to sadly interfere with the attendance, and we closed schools 1 and 2 for a time on that account. In No. 6 there was a term of school last spring, and in No. 7 a fall term. The rest of the districts had two terms of town school, of twenty-four weeks' length, which is a little above the average in the state, according to Mr. Patterson's report. For convenience it was arranged that Mr. Blanchard should have oversight of the schools No. 4 and 5, and the remarks relative to them are from his pen.

NUMBER ONE.

This school has been in charge of the same teacher as last year, Miss L. T. Carlton, of Derry. The high rank this school attained some years ago is still maintained. The teachers has the happy faculty of interesting her pupils in their various studies, and in maintaining good order in a very quiet manner. Good improvement was apparent in the different branches taught, and the examinations were well attended by the residents of the district. The most remarkable exercise was the spelling by a class of four boys of about two hundred words from memory with but very little prompting. The closing exercise of the last term was the reading by Marian Dow, of an interesting and spicy school paper The Children's Friend.

NUMBER TWO.

Miss Addie C. Nichols of Derry, a recent graduate of the State Normal School, was in charge of the first term. This teacher was desirous of advancing those under her care, but her labors were not appreciated by some of the district. There was a marked improvement in reading and mental arithmetic. There were twenty different scholars who attended the school, but only fourteen were present the last day, and only two residents of the district present as visitors.

Mr. Harry B. Sanborn of Concord, was employed for the next term, and met with commendable success. Examination day was a very cold one, several scholars were absent and none of the parents were present.

NUMBER THREE.

Both terms of this school were in charge of Miss Vinie M. Richardson of Chester. This teacher brought to the school several year's experience; is well qualified to instruct in the various branches taught; she soon won and retained to the close the good will and esteem of her pupils; she has the happy faculty of securing and maintaining good order, and the result was very successful terms of school. The examinations were creditable to both teacher and school, many visitors were present at each examination, and all seemed well satisfied. We hope the day is not far distant when a new school-house will be provided for this school.

NUMBER FOUR.

The spring and fall terms were taught by Mrs. M. Eva Robinson of Windham, with the exception of four weeks of the autumn term, when Mrs. Robinson resigned, (much to the regret of all connected with the school) for a wider field of action.

NUMBER FIVE.

This school was taught by Miss Annie J. Blanchard of Windham.

They were both teachers of experience, as well as having received a Normal School training, which is by no means to be underated. Having a love for the work, and being abreast of the times in methods of teaching, they soon won the confidence and esteem of the pupils, which is an important factor to success. At our different visits we found the various branches receiving the proper amount of attention; the scholars quiet and attentive to the business of the hour; the teachers active, and ready to impart a good amount of information not found in the text books. The closing examination of each term witnessed a goodly number of parents and friends of education, while the scholars with much courtesy, gave evidence of very thorough training.

We are pleased to bear testimony to the fact that the parents in Nos. 4 and 5, take a lively interest in the education of their children; which has a salutary influence on the schools and is a valuable aid to the teachers, which cannot fail to be appreciated by one engaged in the work of establishing character for the young. The prosperity of a school rests, to a great extent, with those who patronize it.

Parents cannot be too guarded in what they say in the presence of their children. For children will be habitually disobedient at school, unless the seeds of disobedience shall have been previously sown at home.

NUMBER SIX.

A term of ten weeks was enjoyed by the few scholars in this district under the instruction of Miss Jennie F. Lowe, of Derry. The closing review afforded ample evidence that the school was a success.

NUMBER SEVEN.

In the spring it was arranged to have a part of this school go to Kilrea, Derry, and the rest to No. 1. As this arrangement was carried out only in part, we gave the school a fall term of sixteen weeks with Miss Susan Merriam, of this town, teacher.

This young teacher met with marked success in her new employment. The best of order was maintained and very commendable progress made. The scholars learned and recited a large number of scripture gems.

FUND SCHOOLS.

No. 2 Fund School was taught by Mr. Sanborn. The deep snows and the severity of the weather prevented some of the smaller scholars from attending and several others were very irregular in their attendance. At the close there were but seven scholars, these gave ample evidence of making good improvement of their time. Colburn's Arithmetic received much attention. All seemed quite familiar with the outline maps and the map of New Hampshire, and some problems were finely worked upon the black-boards,

The Fund School in No. 4 (with the exception of twelve days) was under the direction of Miss Olive B. Hazelton, of Chester, an experienced teacher and one who taught this school with so much acceptance two or three years ago, but being called away by sickness, the term was completed by Miss Annie J. Blanchard, of this town.

In No. 6 the fund school was taught by Miss Carrie D. Sanders, of Derry. The order and improvement in the school was impaired seriously by the presence of a boy, who at times disregarded the rules, and in many ways annoyed the otherwise quiet school. The review of the last day was witnessed by several members of the district.

REMARKS.

Parents, do you wish your children to become good and useful members of society, to act well their part in life? If so, give them as good an education as you possibly can. No better legacy can you leave them. President Harrison is credited with the following remark: "I have a firm belief that the rock of our safety as a nation lies in the proper education of the population; that it is impossible for a man to discharge his duties as a citizen without the knowledge that is to be derived from the common schools."

Intelligence and virtue usually go hand in hand; ignorance and vice are twin-brothers. "Children do not have to learn to be bad, this comes without any effort, but it does require an effort to be good, and so children have to be constantly taught to be good." Do not complain if they are sometimes punished at school. There is very little danger that they will receive more that is their just due. Fifty years ago and more, children were sent to school and told to obey all the rules of the teacher; were told that if they got punished at school they would be punished again on reaching home, and some of us can testify to the fact that this promise was fulfilled to the letter.

We wish to call attention of teachers to the importance of great care and thoroughness in filling out the school registers. It is a part of your work an no one else can do it. When properly filled they contain a large amount of valuable and necessary imformation relative to our schools.

Tardiness is a great hindrance to the advancement of some of our schools. The registers show instances of tardiness for the year as follows: No. 1, 72; No. 2, 217; No. 3, 0; No. 4, 4; No. 5, 25; No. 6, 9; No. 7, o. The absences of enrolled scholars are much more numerous than is desirable, aggregating 1141 days, which is a loss of more than two and a half weeks on an average to each scholar of the average enrollment of 87. The entire number of different scholars enrolled during the year was 106, but only fifteen were perfect in attendance for the whole year.

There is reason to believe that in some of our schools there are boys who are in the habit of using profane language. This is a sad announcement to make but of its truthfulness there is no doubt. Are not parents in a great measure responsible for the existence of this great evil? Children learn to use improper language by first hearing it from others. Their little ears are ever open to catch every sound, bad as well as good. "My father swears, and why shouldn't I?" is the natural reasoning of the youthful mind. Precept to be effective, must be sustained by good example. Says a writer: "Would that children [and all others, we add] were impressed with the fact that profaneness is pure iniquity, inexcusable and degrading, besides being the introduction to things still worse." Let us all, parents, children, teacher's, and school-board, unite in trying to eradicate this great evil from our midst.

The season has once more arrived that the Trustees of the Nesmith Library are called upon to make report of their doings to the inhabitants of the town, and it is with pleasure we open, "as it were" a new era to the prosperity of the Nesmith Library. Your Trustees at a meeting in March, voted to close the library after April 12th, while recataloguing the books; and after much delay both in arranging the books and prepairing the copy for printing, and the slow tedious process of printing, proof reading and correction; we succeeded on the fifteenth day of November in again opening the library to the public, with Master John L. Bradford as librarian, who for one so young and inexperienced has displayed an aptitude for the position that speaks well for his future usefulness. The style of catologues was not materially changed from the old ones, but the books were rearranged, numbered and shelved so as to be more convenient for the librarian. As was predicted in our last annual report, the library "in the three and one-half months since it was opened" seems to have taken to itself a new impetus, and something of the old time interest is felt by the patrons, which is gratifying to see.

Eighteen volumes were rebound during the year; fifty-two new volumes were purchased, and also a copy of the Literary World was subscribed for, which it is thought, will be helpful in making selections in the future.

It was voted at the adjourned annual meeting of the Trustees in November, that each family in town should have one copy of the catalogue free, and as many more as they may wish for at fifty cents each, and that a record should be kept of their distribution. The total amount expended for five hundred copies was two hundred forty-five dollars and forty cents ($245.40).

Respectfully submitted,
